

Well-being and Environment Workshop
18th September 2008 (Douglas Knoop)

- The group was interested in exploring the capacity within the University that already work on, for example, participatory decision frameworks for enhancing well-being in Southern nations. Developing systems approaches for modelling linked social-ecological systems was identified as a way forward.

Next steps:

- Develop some research questions and initiate a debate on how best to investigate.
- Circulate call information as and when it becomes available
- Organise some short question and answer sessions with a quick presentation on the key issues – perhaps 1 before Christmas?
